Co-Operation

People I stand before you not as Mr. Thomas, a man that had followed the plow handles. I am here a farmer's wife, who has helped in farm work from the hoe to taking down tobacco from the roof of a barn. I am co-operative. If not I should be, to have lived on the farm 41 years and endured the hard ships and pleasures with two different farmers. My old father before me was a union man true and staunch as ever lived, D. R. Inge is union through and through, so you see I am compelled to be a very strong advocate for co-operation. I am proud to be called a farmer's wife, I consider it one of the greatest honors there can be. I am a mother of two sons I hope to live to see fill the places of two of the present co-ops when they have fought their fight and layed down their arms to rest. Let these young boys take up the work we have started. Some will doubtless say the work we have started. I say we because its we in every other enterprise so its we in this.

Men you were not made to sign this contract, you did it of your own free will, now do what you can with a determined will to go over victorious. Moneyed men have helped lots of other firms have helped us. The President of the U. S. A. is with us now lets do our best. What would you term the best? To go about picking and fault finding? I beg you in the name of all that's good and honorable not to do that, be firm as old Stonewall Jackson of old. I am proud that we can tell our children and most all of them, that we are charter members of Tobacco growers co-operation of America. Some will say what are you going to do if you break down. I'll say to you who may ask such a question I am of the same opinion still, the co-operation is a grand organization and shall grow stronger day by day and year by year if you men and women do your duty, I mean all that should every one that's a co-op indeed a member that's on the fence had better be outside and not be bothering the ones that are pulling steady. You hitch two horses together if one goes on true, the other gurkes, pulls and kicks how in the world will the true one go on with so much hinderance.

Well co-ops this last little word of encouragement to you and I will close: Men of wealth have helped you and will still do so, your leader is for you and b st of all our God is for us for he is with all good things and against the evil. I ask you one and all to pray daily for your oppressor and go on and on and on in this great work which has begun.

Ford Plan

Families of moderate or limited means, who heretofore hesitated about purchasing cars, are coming into the automobile buying field in greater numbers than ever before, if records of the Ford Motor Company's Weekly Purchase Plan may be taken as an indication.

The plan, launched not quite two years ago, was started chiefly to give such people an opportunity to enjoy the benefits and pleasures of motor car transportation, and those taking advantage of it are growing in numbers every day. It is simple, the prospective purchaser making weekly payments of an amount best suited to his individual means, these payments becoming part of a bank account until such time as the purchaser has a sufficient sum to take delivery of his car.

Details of the operation of the plan, as just given out by the company, show that from a comparatively few daily enrollments during the first month, the number has steadily risen until now more than seven hundred people are enrolling every day throughout the country, a rather remarkable public endorsement of the plan.

The records also show that there are at present more than 165,000 already have received their car under the plan.

These figures seem to bear our predictions made when the plan was inaugurated, that it would exert a wide influence toward lessening extravagant buying with its consequent embarrassments, and instead afford a practical means for car ownership in which all members of the family can participate.

Reduce Living Expenses

That it costs more to live in a town that is not incorporated than it does to live in an incorporated town the following figures will show:

Here is a man living in an incorporated town. His property is assessed at $3,000 and taxed at 50c on $100. His annual incorporation tax will be $15. If the town is well managed and the money wisely spent, he ought to have extra police protection, extra fire protection, well-lighted and well-paved streets, and side walks, a weekly removal of garbage and rubbish, improved sanitary conditions and therefore better health and fewer doctors bills. Furthermore the value of his property will be enhanced, industries will come, employment will be more steady and remunerative. Then above all, he will live while he is living.

Here is a man that lives in a town that is not incorporated, he saves $15 per annum in taxes but if he undertakes to have anything like the same comforts cleanliness, protection from fire etc, he must spend $6 more per annum for insurance, $2 for flash lights and upkeep thereon, $3 extra per individual for shoes and rubbers, $2.50 extra for door mats, $5 for cleaning carpets, $25 for scrubbing and cleaning, $10 extra for removal of garbage and rubbish, $25 extra for cleaning, repairing and depreciation on automobile. The actual difference is $163 per annum and of course the actual comforts and protection of the two are not to be compared even then. X.

STATE CAPITAL

Supreme Court Fight Looming.

Richmond.—

Election of two members of the Supreme Court of Appeals at the coming session of the Legislature will make things interesting around the Capitol. A successor to Judge Preston W. Campbell, of Abingdon, will have to be made, and the selection of a successor to Judge Joseph L. Kelly, of Bristol, will follow. The fact that both of the judges involved in the succession are from one county adds to the interest in the matter. Governor Trinkle recently appointed Judge Kelly, a former member of the court, and his term will expire within thirty days after the convening of the Legislature.

Both Judge Campbell and Judge Kelly are to offer for their places, and right there is where the fight will be up to the Legislature. A politician from Washington county says that the matter is already before the people of that section, that the people of Washington county and of Bristol are taking sides and that the issue is to be the cause of exciting politics.

The Legislature has not in the past departed from the custom of having a judge from each of the grand divisions, the last time that being attempted resulting in the defeat of the Governor's appointee and the saning of a judge from the division in which the vacancy existed. There are some who are declaring that it makes no difference from what section the judges come, that the best man should be named for the good of the State.

Contest for House of Delegates from that section will be based largely on the attitude of the candidates toward the choice of a judge of the Supreme Court. Whether the voters in the Southwest will stand for two candidates from the same district is not unsettled, but the voters are declared to be much concerned in the struggle that is ahead.

Candidates Invited To Road Meeting.

All shades of opinion on good roads problems are expected to be expressed at the annual meeting of the Virginia Good Roads Association to be held in Richmond April 9 and 10. G. Walter Mapp, Harry Flood Byrd and C. Lee Moore, candidates for Governor in the coming election, have been invited to be among the speakers and give their views on roads, while Frank Page, highway commissioner for the State of North Carolina, will also make an address.

The main idea of the meeting as expressed by officials of the association is "to bring the best thought of the State to bear upon a question that is of the most importance to the development of Virginia." The association has said that it is not wedded to any particular idea of road building or road financing, but believes that every effort must be made to facilitate transportation in the State.

Officials have characterized the coming meeting as a "Virginia get-together and advance forward movement" and add that every Virginian "who is in favor of progress" will be welcomed.

Labor Considering Two Meetings.

The controversy in the Virginia State Federation of Labor over the place for holding the 1925 convention may result in two conventions, one at Portsmouth and the other in Richmond, both meeting on May 4.

Official announcement is made by President J. R. Stewart of the selection of Portsmouth, notwithstanding the decision of President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, that the convention can be held legally only in Richmond, as voted by the last convention.

School Heads Named.

After careful consideration the State Board of Education settled the question of school superintendents in Bedford and King George counties by uniting the two counties into one school division and electing T. D. Jayle, superintendent. In addition to uniting for the five counties left in doubt at the recent meeting, the board passed a resolution of appreciation to Superintendent James Hurst, of Norfolk county, who will conclude four years of service as a member of the State board.

Legion Drive Starts April 6.

Virginia's $5,000,000 American Legion endowment drive will take place the week of April 6 instead of March 3, according to plans made at the meeting of the State executive board.

The change was made to avoid conflict with the Rotary Club meeting March 23 and due to other causes, it is decided to make April 6 the date for launching the State-wide appeal.

High Court To Rule.

Whether the Law and Equity Court of Richmond or the Fairfax County Circuit Court has jurisdiction as to partition proceedings in the case of Mrs. Mary M. Lee, widow of Robert E. Lee, Jr., against Dr. George Bolling Lee, administrator of the estate of General W. H. F. Lee, will be determined by the Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals. Argument in the case was heard before the State tribunal, but no decision will be handed down at this time.

Thrifty Wife Sells Shoe

Shortly after a traveling man returned from a long road trip he went to his closet to get out his light summer suit and white shoes. He could find but one shoe. He asked his wife about the missing shoe, but got no information. Inquiring further, he learned from his daughter that the wife had sold one of the shoes to a one-legged man who had called at the door.—Kansas City Star.

Birthday Celebration

On last Wednesday, March 18, the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Harvey near Vera, was the scene of an enjoyable family reunion, the occasion being the eighty-ninth birthday of Mr. Harvey, who is one of the county's oldest and most venerated citizens. He has lived his whole life in this county. He was born down on the Appomattox; from there he answered his country's call in '61, came back and settled near his parents where he lived for more than fifty years. Mr. Harvey is quite in active man for his years and was able to participate in all the festivities of the day.

One of the most enjoyable features of the day was the birthday dinner served in true old-Virginia style. The dinner consisted of roast chicken, roast mutton, boiled ham, vegetables, cakes, and fruits of all kinds, with many other delicacies all of which were thoroughly enjoyed.

The Culinary Art

I mind the first time I made cream biscuss how the folks raved over 'em. Why I just felt as puffed up as the biscuits after the praise they gave me. But my cream biscuits did "rise" beautifully and they had such rich, tender crusts and such delicious "inside." Well, cream biscuits are easy to make if you have the right ingredients. The way I do is to sift two cups of a good, reliable self-rising flour into a mixing bowl with enough sweet cream to mix. I mix this firm enough to handle and roll the dough pretty thin. Then I brush one biscuit with melted butter and place another on top of that and brush the top with soft butter or milk. I have my oven real hot, too, 'cause that's the secret of successful biscuits. You all will love cream biscuits they're so tender and delicious.

It's Easy to Make.

The little birds in the farm next to ours was asking me the other day for a good recipe for plain sponge cake so I told her as how I thought this one was about as good as any I know. Maybe you'd like to try it: Just beat the yolks of six eggs then slowly add a cup of sugar, 2 tablespoons of hot water and some vanilla extract. Add to this a cup and a half of sifted self-rising flour and the whites of the eggs beaten stiffly. Bake in loaf tins in a slow oven.

High English Cliffs

Beachy head is one of the highest of the English cliffs. Its summit is 564 feet above the sea. The Welsh coast has several cliffs higher than Beachy head. Holyhead is 719 feet and Great Orme's head 678 feet. St. Catherine's cliff, Isle of Wight, beats all these. It is 830 feet high.

Have Odd "Privilege"

The Gentlemen-at-Arms is the principal military corps of the royal household and the oldest corps in England, with the exception of the Yeomen of the Guard. One of the various privileges claimed by the Gentlemen-at-Arms is that of carrying up the second course of the sovereign's dinner.

QUIT GETTING UP NIGHTS
A Healthy Bladder Is Turning the Burning Stream Bright as Crystal
Backache and Bladder Misery Ended in Five Days
Many times each night you are compelled to get up to make that clear, cool water of the healthy. You have to endure the pain, burning, irritation and discomfort. Then you make but little water, and you are unable to sleep for you must get up so often. Your back aches, your head aches, you are nervous, dizzy, have spells of indigestion, your eyes are weak, you have rheumatic pains, your tongue is coated and you are all run down. Don't make a mistake in treating the kidneys. Help Nature. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's are for the kidneys. Ask your neighbor!

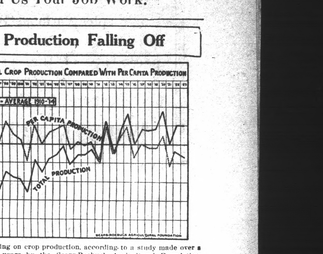
Farm Production Falling Off



Population is gaining on crop production, according to a study made over a period of thirty-four years by the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation, based on figures of the United States Department of Agriculture. The accompanying chart shows crop production per capita is falling.

Taking the average of 1910 as 100, total crop production in the last three years averaged 100.3. Owing to the growth of population, per capita production has been only 92.3 when 100 represents the 1910-1911 average.

The chart shows index numbers of both total and per capita production of crops from 1890 to 1925. The production record is based on the total yield of 10 crops—corn, wheat, oats, barley, rye, buckwheat, potatoes, hay, tobacco and cotton, which include more than 95 per cent of the total acreage of all crops. Since yields are expressed in various units, bushels, tons and pounds, the crops are combined by applying a constant average price to the yearly production of each crop.

Evidently production, consumption and feed prices, all play an important part in regulating butter prices in a tariff-protected market like the United States. The cost of feed may regulate in the long run, but over periods of a few years it has little to do with the selling price of butter.
